

TRIBAL RELATIONS REPORT 2010

THE ART OF COOPERATION

OFFICE OF THE GOVERNOR
STATE OF MONTANA

BRIAN SCHWEITZER
GOVERNOR

JOHN BOHLINGER
LT. GOVERNOR

September 15, 2010

I am pleased to release the 2010 Tribal Relations Report. This Report articulates the historic effort of the State and Tribes working together to build economic self-sufficiency on all the reservations in Montana.

Never in the history of the State of Montana has more been done to encourage, promote and solidify government-to-government relations between the State and the Tribal Nations.

As the national economy raises itself from a recession, the Schweitzer Administration will continue to tighten our belts to ensure we live within our means. Montana is one of only two states in the country with money in the bank.

During this time, it is especially important to acknowledge the valuable resources and expertise we have in those who serve on our boards, councils and commissions. Their contributions expand our abilities to reach all of Montana. I am happy to highlight just a few of these appointees who share in their own words their experience in serving the entire State of Montana.

Although only a small portion of the enormous array of state-tribal work can be described in any detail in this Report, I hope that all who read it embrace the energy, commitment and innovation represented by the people and programs featured herein.

Warm regards,

BRIAN SCHWEITZER
Governor

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

The Tribal Relations Report is produced annually in fulfillment of MCA 2-15-143 to highlight the State of Montana's major activities and interactions with the eight American Indian sovereign governments in Montana. The report is due by September 15 of each year to provide an overview of the major accomplishments that occurred during the course of the previous State fiscal year.

This year's report is organized into four main sections: (1) Strengthening the State-Tribal Relationship; (2) State Agreements Impacting Tribal Governments; (3) State Programs Impacting Tribal Populations; and (4) Appendix "A."

Part I, "Strengthening the State-Tribal Relationship," describes State initiatives to improve consultation and communication between Tribal governments and the State of Montana. These efforts include cultural awareness training for state employees, ensuring Indian people are represented on state boards, and improving efforts to communicate appropriately with Tribal governments. This section focus on the impressive Indian appointees, including a complete listing of the 119 American Indian appointees serving on state boards, councils, and commissions as of June 30, 2010.

Part II, "Activities Impacting Tribal Governments," highlights innovative programs as well as agreements, negotiations and collaborative efforts between Tribal governments and the State. These activities fall into several core areas ranging from economic development, environmental stewardship, human services, finance and justice. A more complete listing of over 650 state-tribal agreements is part of in Appendix "A".

Part III, "Activities Impacting Tribal Populations," describes State programs provided for Indian people generally, whether they live on or off the reservation, as well as cultural and educational programs implemented throughout the State. Examples included in this section are the Healthy Montana Kids Program outreach efforts by the Department of Public Health & Human Services and the Burial Preservation Board, which is administered by the Department of Administration and the Montana Historical Society.

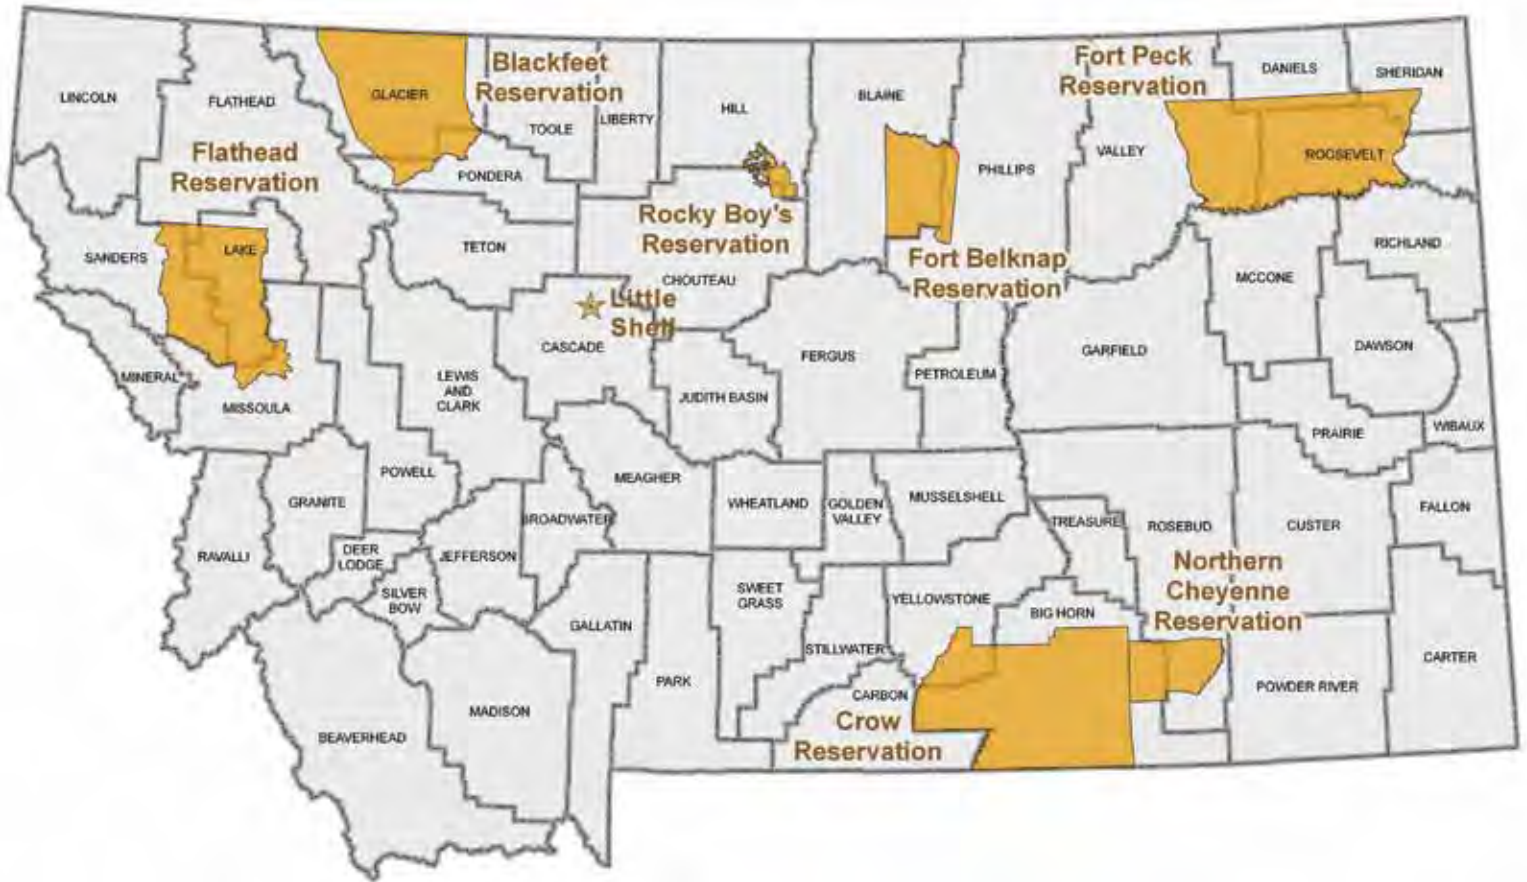

Appendix "A" is a comprehensive summary of over 650 agreements, negotiations, and collaborative efforts with tribal governments that were in effect during the course of fiscal year 2010. This summary is generated from the State-Tribal Activities Database. In the last year, many state agencies have worked to include the database users' responsibilities in the employee job profile to ensure continuity and accountability in the long-term.

Editors: Billie LeDeau, Guylaine Gelinis and Lesa Evers of the Governor's Office; and Anna Whiting Sorrell of the Department of Public Health and Human Services

STRENGTHENING THE STATE-TRIBAL RELATIONSHIP

Governor Brian Schweitzer receives a Pendleton Blanket from Blackfeet Chief Earl Old Person

During the past six years, Governor Brian Schweitzer has placed high emphasis on the state-tribal relationship. Never in the history of the State of Montana has more been done to encourage, promote, and solidify government-to-government relations. Through trust, mutual respect, and cultural understanding, the State and the Tribes are working together to build long lasting partnerships.

The diverse tribes in the State of Montana possess tremendous cultural heritage. Embracing cultural diversity, Governor Schweitzer, as Western Governors Association chairman, included traditional ceremonies while hosting the annual meeting in Whitefish in June 2010. The Mission Valley Veterans Honor Guard from St. Ignatius opened the ceremony by presenting the colors. Students from the Nkwusm Salish Immersion School of the Flathead Reservation sang an honor song to the rhythm of the drum. Recognizing the importance of Indian gift giving, each Governor and Canadian Premier was presented with a Pendleton blanket by Governor Schweitzer and Chief Earl Old Person of the Blackfeet Nation. In the same spirit, the Schweitzer Administration envisions change at all levels of government to create a long lasting foundation through leadership, training and strong state-tribal relations.

FEATURE SECTION: INDIAN APPOINTMENTS TO MONTANA BOARDS AND COMMISSIONS

The Governor's appointment of 119 American Indian appointees to boards, councils and commissions is evidence of his commitment to ensure state government reflects all Montana. The participation of American Indians in state government provides the opportunity to share the tribal perspective and knowledge in their field of expertise. The Schweitzer Administration considers this a high priority.

This year, we are pleased to honor American Indian appointees serving on state government boards, councils and commissions. These individuals share their passion and perspective regarding their experience as board members and highlight the importance of their contribution to the State and Indian Country. While all boards, councils and commissions are of equal importance, the following section focuses on 17 Indian appointees who come from various backgrounds. Last year, we featured high level American Indian government officials serving the state through their vision, leadership and dedication.

Audrey Black Eagle

Audrey Black Eagle, Apsáalooke (Crow)

Montana Board of Housing provides decent, safe, sanitary and affordable housing for lower income individuals and families in the State of Montana.

“He is a Governor who is well respected by the Crow people and a Governor who has created a bridge between the State of Montana and Indian Country. It was an honor to have been selected by Governor Schweitzer to serve on a board as prestigious as the Montana Board of Housing. It means a great deal to the Crow Nation and me to have representation and the opportunity to fulfill my passion.”

Corwin (Corky) Clairmont, Salish & Kootenai

Montana Arts Council serves to develop the creative potential of all Montanans, advance education, spur economic vibrancy and revitalize communities through involvement in the arts.

“As a tribal member from the Confederated Salish & Kootenai Tribes, it affords me the opportunity to represent my tribe and possibly provide an Indian perspective that is not always present in State organizations, although with Governor Schweitzer’s leadership, this has greatly improved.”

Corwin (Corky) Clairmont

Betty N. Cooper

Betty N. Cooper, Blackfeet

Mental Disabilities Board of Visitors conducts reviews of Montana’s public mental health programs and the Montana Developmental Center and assists individuals receiving services from these programs.

“I am honored to be appointed by Governor Schweitzer and to serve to promote the mental health of all Montana communities. I especially support the inclusion of Native American leaders of Montana in the Schweitzer Administration, state government operations and most notably the creation of the cabinet position of State Director of Indian Affairs.”

Gisele Forrest, Fort Peck Assiniboine

Board of Public Education exists to promote high academic achievement for all Montana students.

“I want to engage myself in civic responsibility areas. I believe I was appointed to the board because of my dedication to people in general. I knew as a Native American woman working/living in an urban area I constantly walk in two worlds. Finding balance between the two is sometimes difficult. In Indian Country we play many roles and have many personalities. We are doctors, lawyers, screen writers, entrepreneurs, comedians, teachers, students, moms, daughters, and the list could go on and on. For Indian Country I hope I can honor their voices, I hope I can be honorable to be a good listener, to hear my people.”

Gisele Forrest

Joe Fox Jr.

Joe Fox Jr., Northern Cheyenne

State-Tribal Economic Development Commission works to expand economic development opportunities for Indian Tribes.

“I am very interested in the economic well-being of our tribe and the Tribal Nations of Montana. An awareness of the state’s economic picture is more clear. I understand the process and how it affects the tribes of our state and benefits our Tribal Nations to assist in economic development.”

George Paul Horse Capture Sr.

George Paul Horse Capture Sr., A'aninin Gros Ventre

Montana Historical Society Board of Trustees provides overall direction and management for the Historical Society and provides technical assistance and encouragement to all community museum, archives and preservation efforts.

"To me it [being appointed] means that the Governor is incorporating experienced professionals into the Montana system to utilize their expertise."

S. Kevin Howlett, Salish & Kootenai

Transportation Commission supports the Department of Transportation mission to provide a transportation system and services that emphasize quality, safety, cost effectiveness, economic vitality and sensitivity to the environment.

"I am appreciative of the opportunity to represent a tribal perspective at this level. I believe my experience in Tribal government and ability to see complimentary roles from multiple agencies has helped Indian Country. I bring a personal knowledge and commitment to full Tribal participation in state programs."

S. Kevin Howlett

Jessie James Hawley

Jessie James-Hawley, Gros Ventre White Clay

Aging Advisory Council advises on aging and long-term care issues and enhances the quality of life for senior citizens in Montanans.

"I am very honored to have been appointed by Governor Schweitzer to be part of his efforts to improved relations between Native people and State government and programs. He puts his money and his efforts where his mouth is... we trust him. I just wish Governor Schweitzer was able to continue serving for he does inspire Native people."

Barbara "Malia" Kipp-Camel, Blackfeet

Montana High School Association assures that the membership is provided with leadership and support in advancing equitable MHSA interscholastic activities for the growth and educational experience for students.

"My passion would be to represent and/or advocate for all schools, sports and sexes that rules be fair and just in order to maintain the integrity of Montana High School sports."

Barbara "Malia" Kipp-Camel

Rick Kirn

Rick Kirn, Assiniboine Sioux

Montana Board of Crime Control pro-actively contributes to safety, crime prevention and victim assistance with planning, policy development, and coordination of the justice system in partnership with citizen, government, and communities.

Reserved Water Rights Compact Commission negotiates settlements with federal agencies and Indian tribes claiming federal reserved water rights within the State of Montana.

"My passion is to assist in the relationships between Tribes and government entities. It is a great honor to be called to duty by your government. I have met with Governor Schweitzer and have the highest respect for his position and responsibilities. I believe that he has done more for Montana including the enhancement of the government-to-government relationship between the Tribes and the State than any other Governor in the state's history."

MONTANA'S POET LAUREATE HENRY REAL BIRD

Governor Brian Schweitzer appointed Henry Real Bird, of Garryowen, as Montana's poet laureate in September 2009. Henry "Hank" Real Bird was born and raised on the Crow Indian reservation in the tradition of the Crow by his grandparents. Real Bird is a rancher and former rodeo cowboy, and raises champion bucking horses on Yellow Leggings Creek in the Wolf Teeth mountains of Montana. Henry began writing poetry in 1969 after an extended stay in the hospital. He speaks Crow as his primary language and feels this has helped in writing his poetry. He has a bachelor's degree from the University of Albuquerque and a master's degree from Eastern Montana College (now Montana State University - Billings).

Henry Real Bird

The Montana Poet Laureate recognizes and honors a citizen poet of exceptional talent and accomplishment. The Poet Laureate's role is to encourage appreciation of poetry and literary life in Montana through readings and presentations and making poetry available to a wide state audience. This position was created by the state legislature in 2005 and the term of service is for two years. Henry Real Bird is the third Montana Poet Laureate.

Evelyn Oats, Chippewa Cree

Statewide Independent Living Council works to develop, implement, and evaluate a State Plan for Independent Living that will enable Montanans with disabilities to live independently.

"I feel serving on this board has improved communications between the State and the tribes. The state council members have a better understanding of the diversity of our tribal history and culture. My program has hosted several state meetings on the reservation."

Evelyn Oats

Patricia Quisno

Patricia Quisno, Gros Ventre

Agriculture Development Council oversees the Growth Through Agriculture program which assists in the development of innovative agricultural businesses, products and marketing endeavors to add value to Montana's agricultural industry.

"...I have always made my best effort to make good decisions, be present for all meetings and work for the good of Montana. I feel very honored that I was appointed to this position by Governor Schweitzer. I believe that it shows his interest and trust in Native Americans to serve on boards such as this."

Harvey L. Rattey, Little Shell

Board of Veterans' Affairs promotes the general welfare of Montana veterans and their families.

"I am enthusiastic about spreading the word especially about VA health benefits, with fellow Indian veterans. When a matter comes up for a vote at a board meeting, I weigh the issue with the Indian perspective in mind."

Harvey L. Rattey

Major Robinson

Major Robinson, Northern Cheyenne

State Workforce Investment Board advises the Governor on the creation, implementation and continuous improvement of a comprehensive statewide workforce development system.

"...the State Workforce Investment Board, I, and my fellow Indian State Workforce Investment Board representatives serve as a constant reminder that matters affecting Montana are also matters affecting the health of Indian communities and that both should be addressed in order to ensure a strong and prosperous state economy. By being appointed to the State Workforce Investment Board by Governor Schweitzer, he has shown he is serious when he says the voices of all citizens must be heard when discussing matters that affect Montana, especially those that are typically underrepresented when discussing issues concerning the state."

James Shanley, Assiniboine

Montana Committee for the Humanities brings the humanities, their insights and values, to the people of Montana, thereby enriching the intellectual, cultural, and civic life of the state.

"I am very proud and grateful [to be appointed by Governor Schweitzer]."

James Shanley

Patty Stevens

Patty Stevens, Salish & Kootenai

Interagency Coordinating Council for State Prevention Programs works to sustain a coordinated, comprehensive system of prevention services in the State of Montana that will strengthen the healthy development, well-being, and safety of children, families, individuals, and communities.

"I take this appointment seriously as a member of the Indian community and a resident of Montana."

Jackie Yellowtail, Apsáalooke (Crow)

Tourism Advisory Council provides guidance on matters that relate to travel and tourism, guides the Travel Montana program, and strives to promote a quality experience to visitors while encouraging the preservation of Montana's environment and quality of life.

"The Governor has been true to his word that the Native American citizens would have a voice in government. Collectively, we have jointly learned from the Tourism Advisory Council and they in turn, have learned a new perspective from the three of us. We as an Advisory Council want to ensure all citizens of Montana will benefit from the decisions that we make as a board. Indian Country needs to know that their tribes have a voice as it pertains to tourism in Montana."

Jackie Yellowtail

Montana Governor Brian Schweitzer encourages Montana citizens to be part of state government through the opportunity to serve on a Montana board or council. MAJOR STATE ACTIVITIES TO STRENGTHEN STATE-TRIBAL RELATIONS

The State of Montana is steadily implementing a state-tribal relations policy emphasizing direct consultation and effective communication, mutual respect and cooperation, accountability in addressing issues of mutual concern, and preservation of the state-tribal relationship. These principles guide the government-to-government relationship and are reflected in state law. §2-15-142, MCA. This policy has prompted the implementation of state-tribal consultation practices throughout state government and continues to strengthen ongoing interactions with tribes. Below are some of the major state government initiatives, state-tribal consultations, and tribal relations trainings provided to state employees that occurred during the last fiscal year.

Governor's Office of Indian Affairs – The Governor's Office of Indian Affairs serves as a bridge between the State of Montana and tribal governments, citizens, elected officials, and organizations. The Office of Indian Affairs team assists with a wide variety of services ranging from addressing tribal government requests and coordinating issues with state agencies, responding to constituent concerns, disseminating information and useful resources, and providing guidance in navigating state government.

After 2 ½ years of serving as State Director of Indian Affairs, Jennifer Perez Cole accepted a position with the United States Department of Agriculture Farm Service Agency as Public Affairs Specialist/State Outreach Coordinator/Civil Rights Coordinator. Her enthusiasm, dedication and leadership during her tenure as Director contributed to the improvement of communications between the Governor's Office, state agencies and the respective tribal governments. In June 2010, Governor Schweitzer appointed Lesa Evers as Acting State Director of Indian Affairs to ensure continuity in addressing this important work.

Tribal Relations Handbook: A Guide for State Employees on Preserving the State-Tribal Relationship

Confederated Salish & Kootenai Tribal Chairman E.T. Bud Moran presents a traditional dancer art piece to Governor Schweitzer

The Governor's Office of Indian Affairs is committed to ensuring that state employees have the tools and resources available to assist in their work with tribal governments and Indian people of our great State. During the fall of 2009, the Office of Indian Affairs redesigned its website <http://tribalnations.mt.gov/> to expand on state-tribal resources available to the citizens, tribes, and employees of the State of Montana.

In addition, the Governor's Office of Indian Affairs produced the Tribal Relations Handbook, A Guide for State Employees on Preserving the State-Tribal Relationship. The handbook outlines the state-tribal relations policies, principles and protocol and provides information concerning each tribal governing body.

Governor Schweitzer and Richard Sangrey, Chippewa Cree Tribe's Chief of Staff, visit during the 2010 Tribal Leaders Summit

Governor's Tribal Leaders Summit

– Following pre-visits by his staff in January, the Governor hosted Tribal Leaders Summit meetings on February 9, 2010 at the State Capitol to encourage state-tribal dialogue and to further strengthen the government-to-government relationship. Individual one hour meetings were held with each tribal government throughout the day directly with the Governor. The Summit meetings provided an opportunity for the Tribes to share their priority issues. That same evening, Governor Schweitzer hosted a Tribal Leader's Reception at the executive residence to honor tribal leaders.

As part of the Summit, the Department of Public Health and Human Services hosted a Tribal Leaders Luncheon in the Capitol Rotunda. Director Anna Whiting Sorrell presented the first report on activities, services and programs the department provides to the Tribes or in cooperation with the Tribes to ensure the highest quality of service to tribal members. The report contains an abundance of activities with Tribes and represents the work implemented by many dedicated employees. A copy of this report is located at: <http://dphhs.mt.gov/directorsoffice/tribalreport2010.pdf>. In recognition of the importance of gift giving in American Indian culture, department employees Linda Snedigar and Nancy Wikle were honored at the luncheon. Each were gifted a blanket by Director Whiting Sorrell in acknowledgement for their efforts and accomplishments in working with Tribes.

American Indian Focus Group – American Indians represent the single largest minority population in the State. However, Montana state government employs 3.3 percent fewer American Indians than Montana's overall labor force. A focus group of state government American Indian employees was formed in an effort to seek recommendations and identify strategies to enhance employment opportunities and inclusion of Americans Indians in state government.

Department of Public Health and Human Services Director Anna Whiting Sorrell presents Nancy Wikle and Linda Snedigar with a blanket in a gift giving ceremony at the State Capitol

Department of Public Health and Human Services Internal Tribal Workgroup

– The department created an internal tribal workgroup that seeks ways to improve the department communications with tribal governments and tribal populations. Since May 2010, the newly developed Employee Fact Sheet, which outlines the employees' role in implementing the state-tribal relations policy, has been included in the department employee orientation packet and posted on the human resources section of the department's website. The department also implemented a tribal visits calendar to coordinate efforts, increase effectiveness and eliminate duplication. Most importantly, the workgroup also developed a Tribal Consultation Policy outlining the process for working and contracting with the tribal governments.

The department consulted with the Tribes on the draft document to ensure the policy met both the department and the Tribes' needs. The comments have been received and as a result the department policy is being revised and put into effect.

Department of Justice – This past year, Attorney General Steve Bullock consulted with tribal governments on an array of law enforcement issues. In meetings with the Crow, Northern Cheyenne and Confederated Salish & Kootenai tribal governments, Attorney General Bullock, together with officials from the Montana Department of Justice and the Highway Patrol, discussed with tribal leaders the opportunities for cooperative work in several areas, including prescription drug abuse, crimes against children, domestic violence, consumer protection, and highway safety. The Department of Justice will continue with consultations in the coming year and is working with the Tribes to prioritize follow-up efforts.

Governor Schweitzer poses with the Urban Indian Health Center Directors and State Representatives in the first ever meeting between both parties in the Governor's Reception Room in front of the Tribal Nations flags

Governor Schweitzer, Department of Public Health and Human Services Director Anna Whiting Sorrell, and former Director of Indian Affairs Jennifer Perez Cole conducted a historic consultation meeting on February 10, 2010 at the State Capitol. This meeting represents a first step toward building relationships with the five centers and laid the foundation for partnerships to address the H1N1 influenza pandemic and recruit American Indian children for the Healthy Montana Kids Project.

“Tools to effectively work with Tribal Governments & Indian People”

A packed house of nearly 300 participants, the 2009 Tribal Relations Training was held on December 9, 2009 at the Red Lion Hotel in Helena.

Developed and coordinated by the Governor’s Office of Indian Affairs, this annual training is provided to state of Montana employees and focuses primarily on issues that impact the Tribal Nations of Montana and the state-tribal relationship.

The Montana Army National Guard Honor Guard and Mike Talks Different, a highly respected member of the Fort Belknap Tribes, opened the conference with a prayer, a flag song and an honor song.

Incorporating humor into all that he does, Mike Jetty served as our marvelous emcee. In the afternoon, Mike talked about the Essential Understandings Regarding Montana Indians and conducted a highly energized game of Indian Jeopardy – a game that only demonstrated that our state employees have learned a great deal about Montana’s tribal nations. Great job Mike!

Governor Brian Schweitzer, with loyal Jag by his side, provided a warm welcome to all. He talked about his vision for the State of Montana and Montana’s Tribal Nations to continue to work together, and thanked the employees for their personal effort to make such a historic partnership happen.

Montana continues to lead the way.

Darrell Robes Kipp, the co-founder and director of the Piegan Institute on the Blackfeet Reservation, served as the keynote speaker.

Darrell brought us back to our school days and physical education class when we went through the exercise of picking teams whether that be for a kickball game or a basketball game. A painstaking ordeal for some many times over, Darrell shared his perspective on what it can feel like to be excluded and to never be chosen for a team, rather you sit on the sidelines or in some cases, you just leave the gym because you are never invited to play.

Weaved among some fun and laughter, Darrell provided us sincere and honest messages about the importance of inviting everyone to join in – whether that be a meeting or a conversation – and to always keep in the front of your mind, what it might feel like for those who are not included.

Julia Doney, who recently served as the President of the Fort Belknap Indian Community Council, reminded us how important it is to develop good, positive relationships – not only with each other but also with those that we, as state employees, serve each day.

Sharing her personal story about being a new, young mother and the overwhelming feeling it is to realize that you need assistance to care for a child, Julia talked about how difficult it can be to reach out and seek assistance. Armed with a newborn, she paid for and arranged to get a ride to her local public assistance office 21 miles away, only to get to the door, touch the knob, and walk back to the car because she was afraid of what she might face once she opened that door. In a new frame of mind, she went back the next day, opened the door and was greeted with welcoming arms by those on the other side of the door. The case worker, who offered to hold her newborn while she filled out the necessary paperwork, allowed her to develop this almost instant trust and from that point, the relationship was started.

The Governor's Office of Indian Affairs unveiled their new Tribal Relations Handbook, which serves as a guide for state employees. Communication protocol was reviewed and the office's newly revised website was presented. The Office of Indian Affairs serves as an excellent resource to state employees who work in Indian Country.

Mandy Smoker Broaddus, Director of Indian Education at the Office of Public Instruction, talked about the American Indian Role Model Poster Series project which features 22 American Indian role models from across the State of Montana.

Henry Real Bird, Montana's Poet Laureate, and member of the Crow Tribe, powerfully shared some of his personal poems.

We had an opportunity to hear from some of those who are part of the 123 Native Americans who the Schweitzer Administration has appointed to boards, councils and commissions since January of 2005.

Created by the Confederated Salish & Kootenai Tribes to dispel untruths about life on the Flathead Reservation, Rob McDonald talked about the purpose of developing The Rez We Live On website and the importance of the project.

<http://therezweliveon.com/>

To end a wonderful day of sharing, we brought in our strongest closer, Anna Whiting-Sorrell. Anna talked about lessons learned throughout this important day and about how if we are to develop strong meaningful relationships, we must truly be willing to take risk and share ourselves with others. The result can be the beginning of another good relationship.

Special thanks to Jennifer Perez Cole, Billie LeDeau, Andy Huff and Guylaine Gelinis for their tremendous effort in organizing this year's training.

FISH, WILDLIFE & PARKS EMPLOYEE IS COMMITTED TO STRENGTHENING STATE-TRIBAL RELATIONSHIPS ACROSS MONTANA

Kqyn Kuka is a Game Warden for the Montana Department of Fish, Wildlife and Parks, who currently patrols the district boundaries of the Blackfeet Nation. Kqyn understands the importance of developing and maintaining successful working relationships with the State, Tribes and the federal government given the complex jurisdictional issues. By a show of respect, courtesy and understanding, she continues to build upon a strong foundation with the Blackfeet Fish and Game Department, Tribal Courts and neighboring tribal game wardens along with the Bureau of Indian Affairs and the Federal Bureau of Investigations. Kqyn takes pride in her Indian heritage and maintains a strong connection with her Blackfeet culture. Her goal is to help Montana understand how to resolve the difficulties that Indian people face regarding their unique sovereign status within the State.

STATE AGENCIES' TRIBAL RELATIONS TRAININGS

Fundamental to working effectively with a tribal government or Indian peoples is an understanding of the history, culture and present concerns of individual Tribes. Tribes are very different from each other, and state employees who work with Tribes are encouraged to educate themselves about unique tribal characteristics and legal, social, economic and cultural issues. The annual Governor's Tribal Relations Training is one of many opportunities for state employees to acquire knowledge regarding the tribes in Montana. Examples of training provided over the past year are described below.

Trainers' Webinar – At the request of the Department of Justice, Governor's Office representatives provided a Tribal Relations Training Webinar to the state government trainers' network on April 2, 2010. The training outlined the Office of Indian Affairs purpose and resources, and provided an overview of the Tribal Nations in Montana, principles for working with the tribal governments and Indian people, and Indian law background.

Department of Revenue – The Department of Revenue conducted a State-Tribal Relations Training during the Department of Revenue's All Managers Meeting on June 11, 2010. This training was designed to give all of the department managers a better understanding and awareness of the variety and depth of department interactions with Montana's Tribes and tribal members. It was also intended to communicate the high priority department leadership places on meaningful state-tribal relations.

SPECIAL RECOGNITION

Bruce Nelson

Governor Brian Schweitzer would like to give special recognition to two former Governor's Office staff members, former Chief of Staff Bruce Nelson and former Chief Policy Advisor Hal Harper, who made it a priority to advance state-tribal relations in the State of Montana. Their dedication, service and expertise were instrumental in making the state a better place for all Montanans.

STATE ACTIVITIES IMPACTING TRIBAL GOVERNMENTS

STATE ACTIVITIES IMPACTING TRIBAL GOVERNMENTS

The tribal governments and State of Montana continue to work towards strengthening the economy of Indian Country by working together to create jobs through economic development on the reservations, expanding workforce training opportunities for tribal members, supporting social services programs, and preserving Montana's beauty by ensuring preservation of tribal lands.

The following section features a historic land exchange between the Confederated Salish & Kootenai Tribes and the State of Montana. Then, we will focus on innovative work and accomplishments of state agencies with the tribal governments in the areas of economic development, environmental stewardship, human services, finance and justice. While this section encompasses just a portion of the state-tribal work, a comprehensive listing of over 650 state-tribal agreements that occurred during the past fiscal year is available in Appendix A of this report.

FEATURE SECTION: TRIBAL-STATE LAND EXCHANGE

The Department of Natural Resources and Conservation Trust Lands Management Division closed the first-ever land exchange with the Confederated Salish & Kootenai Tribes on June 16, 2010. The land exchange involved tribal land owned by the Confederated Salish & Kootenai Tribes located outside the Flathead Reservation boundaries, and State trust land in-holdings within the South Fork Jocko Tribal Primitive Area and the Lozeau Special Management Area both located within the exterior boundary of the Flathead Reservation. Both the State and the Tribes benefit from the consolidation provided by this exchange.

The State Common School Trust Land exchanged included over 2400 acres, one section located in the Jocko Primitive Area in the southeast corner of the reservation and three parcels located in the Lozeau Primitive Area in the northwest corner of the reservation. The 640 acres of State Trust land is surrounded by tribal land within the boundaries of the tribal primitive area. Under current tribal regulations, this area can only be used by tribal members for traditional hunting and gathering activities.

The parcels of land owned by the Confederated Salish & Kootenai Tribes off the reservation were located near Lincoln, and north of the reservation boundary near Nirada. The nearly 3,200 acres of Tribal Land was purchased from the Nature Conservancy and private ranches, to facilitate the exchange. The State acquired approximately 514 acres of timber land adjacent to existing Trust lands north of Lincoln, and a block of 2,657 acres of grazing land north of Nirada. The State's has the ability to fully utilize the acquired property and generate revenue. The lands are accessible by the public for walk-in and limited motorized public recreation. Although the number of acres exchanged differs by 514 acres, the value of the land exchanged was essentially equal. This land exchange is the first step in an effort to consolidate land ownership for both the Tribe and the State.

INNOVATIVE PROGRAMS AND COOPERATIVE EFFORTS OF 2010

Economic Development

The Big Sky Economic Development Trust Fund is a state-funded program created by the 2005 Legislature. It is designed to aid in the development of good paying jobs for Montana residents and promote long-term stable economic growth in Montana. Passed by the 2009 Legislature, House Bill 158 allowed tribal governments the ability to have direct access to all economic development grants under the program. Several grant awards have been made since these changes became effective October 1, 2009 including:

- Fort Belknap Indian Community - $16,000 grant to assist with the completion of a feasibility study for a community store in Lodgepole. The community store project would diversify the tribal economy as well as provide essential services that are not currently available to the community.
- Fort Peck Tribes - $135,000 grant for the purchases of equipment, software and sealing of the facility floor associated with the KODA Fiber Systems Joint Venture where they will be manufacturing high-quality injection molded products and fiber optic components for the telecommunications industry. In addition, the Tribe received a $22,000 grant to assist with the completion of the Engineering Master Plan for the Fort Peck Industrial Park Expansion Project in Poplar on the Fort Peck Indian Reservation.
- Northern Cheyenne Tribe - $16,000 grant to assist with the completion of a Preliminary Architectural Report for the Northern Cheyenne Utilities Commission in order to increase the facility capacity. The current plant is located in a 43 year old metal Quonset building.
- Rocky Boy's Chippewa Cree Tribe - $11,000 grant to assist with the completion of a revised and updated management plan for Dry Fork Farms, a tribal farming operation.

The Department of Commerce Indian Country Economic Development Program supports tribal business development projects such as workforce and entrepreneurial training, feasibility studies, job creation and retention, and other priority economic development projects. The Indian Country Economic Development program awarded seven grants in fiscal year 2010. For example, the Northern Cheyenne Tribe received $70,000 for the Northern Cheyenne Arts and Crafts Project. This project includes the opening of a new building, the hiring of a manager to run the Center, marketing and advertisement, construction of outdoor booths, purchase of additional artwork, display cases and equipment.

Launched under the Native American Economic Development Act of 1999 and permanently established by the 2007 Legislature, the State-Tribal Economic Development Commission is responsible for assisting, promoting, encouraging, developing and advancing economic prosperity and employment on Indian Reservations in Montana. The commission is responsible for a comprehensive assessment of the economic development needs and priorities of each Indian reservation in the State. The commission is also tasked with working cooperatively with tribal government officials, the State Director of Indian Affairs and appropriate state officials to help foster state-tribal cooperative agreements (Title 18, Chapter 11, part 1) that enhance the economic development on Indian reservations. The eleven member commission, appointed by the Governor, is administratively attached to the Montana Department of Commerce.

The Confederated Salish & Kootenai Tribes and the Department of Labor and Industry signed the Mission Valley One Stop Workforce System Consortium Agreement and became a signatory partner of the One Stop System on March 31, 2010. The agreement will enhance information sharing between the partners for the benefit of American Indian job seekers.

Department of Labor & Industry Director Keith Kelly unveils the Fall 2009 Main Street Montana Magazine at Blackfeet Community College in Browning

The Blackfeet Reservation was featured in the Fall 2009 issue of the Department of Labor's Main Street Montana magazine. While a variety of local organizations were mentioned, Radiance Technologies (since named Blackfeet Advanced Technologies, Inc.) was highlighted as a new, growing business that will bring new jobs to the community as the company develops advanced lightweight materials for the Department of Defense. As an alternative to metal, this new material will be lighter, stronger, stiffer and ultimately more cost effective. The Pikuni Facility located at the Blackfeet Industry Park is being renovated to allow for the new pultrusion test beds, which fall under the research and development phase of the project.

Tribal Infrastructure

An essential requirement for economic development is dependable infrastructure, including clean reliable water supplies and communications infrastructure. The Tribes and the State are steadily improving tribal infrastructure through a variety of cooperative projects and grants.

The Governor's Office of Economic Development organized a two-day gathering on the Crow Reservation with representatives of the Crow Tribe, Town of Lodge Grass, Big Horn County, State of Montana agencies, Indian Health Service and USDA Rural Development and its partners on November 9-10, 2009 in Lodge Grass and Crow Agency. The first day included a tour of the Town of Lodge Grass' water storage tank site, two community wells, and the wastewater lagoon and was followed by a full day of meetings with all the representatives to discuss how a joint effort could be orchestrated to address the capacity issues facing the Town of Lodge Grass and its community. The tour and meeting provided a unique networking opportunity with a forum of experts to generate effective interagency collaboration. Efforts are ongoing to secure funding for preliminary engineering reports for the water and wastewater systems.

The Department of Environmental Quality continues to provide engineering assistance and review to both the Rocky Boy's/North Central and Fort Peck/Dry Prairie Regional Water Systems. These regional projects are extensive in terms of the land area covered, treatment systems and miles of pipe to be installed, and each will be in excess of $200 million dollars. These large projects are being built in phases. The Department of Environmental Quality and the Department of Natural Resources and Conservation jointly implement the Drinking Water State Revolving Fund. The program offers below-market loans for construction of public health-related infrastructure improvements, as well as provides funding for other activities related to public health and compliance with the Safe Drinking Water Act. The Department of Environmental Quality works with Interagency Coordinating Committees that have representation from the Rocky Boy's Chippewa-Cree, the Fort Peck Assiniboine and Sioux, the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation, the Department of Natural Resources and Conservation, the U.S. Bureau of Indian Affairs and the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency. Three phases have been completed on the Fort Peck/Dry Prairie system, and one phase on the Rocky Boy's/North Central system.

The Department of Natural Resources and Conservation Renewable Resource Grant and Loan Program provides grant and loan funding for public facility and other renewable resource projects for the conservation, management, development and preservation of Montana's renewable resources. The program awarded grants to the Confederated Salish & Kootenai, Crow, Fort Belknap and Fort Peck Tribes in fiscal year 2010.

One project nearing completion with the Confederated Salish & Kootenai Tribes on the Flathead Reservation received a $100,000 grant for an irrigation infrastructure rehabilitation project on the Jocko Upper K Canal. The grant contributed to engineering design, development of bid specifications, canal shaping, installation of 4,000 linear feet of geomembrane canal liner, and placement of gravel ballast. The program also provided a planning grant of $10,000 to the Fort Belknap Tribes to conduct preliminary engineering for a water conservation project on their irrigation system.

The Department of Commerce supports infrastructure development in Indian communities through several programs, such as the state-funded Treasure State Endowment Program and Tribal Infrastructure and Energy Efficiency Reinvestment Program.

The Department of Commerce Treasure State Endowment Program is a state-funded program designed to help solve serious health and safety problems and assist communities with the financing of public facilities projects. The program helps local and tribal governments with constructing or upgrading drinking water systems, wastewater treatment facilities, sanitary or storm sewer systems, solid waste disposal and separation systems, and bridges.

On April 12, 2010, Northern Cheyenne President Leroy Spang, Vice-President Joe Fox Jr., Northern Cheyenne Tribal Council members, the Northern Cheyenne Tribal Housing Authority and Staff, along with several State and Federal dignitaries took part in a ribbon-cutting ceremony at the west entrance to the Northern Cheyenne Reservation to unveil the new tribal welcome sign(s) located on Highway 212. Busby Councilman Robert D. Bailey spearheaded this initiative and collaborated with the Northern Cheyenne Tribal Housing Authority, the Beachamp Group and the Montana Department of Transportation in the development, design and installation of the signs.

Approved as part of the Montana Reinvestment Act and signed into law by Governor Schweitzer on May 14, 2009, the Tribal Infrastructure and Energy Efficiency Reinvestment Program allocated nearly $5 million to tribal governments toward infrastructure and energy efficiency improvements projects. Administered by the State Tribal Economic Development Commission, a listing of the projects which are nearing completion follow:

- Blackfeet Tribe – will complete Phase 3 of their Community Water Project which when fully complete will bring clean drinking water to the Town of Browning and surrounding communities.
- Confederated Salish & Kootenai Tribes – will complete several projects to include expanding a forestry greenhouse, asbestos mitigation, repairing a roof at the Nkwusm School, paving at the Polson Indian Senior Center, and repairing a roof on the Ronan Forestry building.
- Crow Tribe – will complete designs and plans for the construction of a new Tribal Administration building, perform an energy efficiency weatherization project for low-income families, and restore two parks and recreation areas.
- Fort Belknap Indian Community – will install a new telephone system in their tribal administration building, rehabilitate several homes and complete a fire hydrant assessment.
- Fort Peck Assiniboine and Sioux Tribes – will retrofit a portion of the A&S Diversified building for a future manufacturing project and complete an energy efficiency improvement project.
- Northern Cheyenne Tribe – will install a new roof and soffit on the tribal administration building, replace a boiler system to provide for better heating, air conditioning and ventilation, improve a fire protection system, improve handicap accessibility and restructure and reorganize their computer network.
- Rocky Boy's Chippewa Cree Tribe will increase drinking water storage capacity by upgrading the Parker Water Storage System.

The Tribes, local jurisdictions and the State are working together to improve emergency communications infrastructure through "Interoperability Montana (IM)". The program awarded funding to three tribal sites in 2009 for projects ranging from equipment improvements to complete site build-outs. The Confederated Salish & Kootenai Tribes received $609,030 for completion of their Jette site. The allocation to the Blackfeet Tribe was $356,785 to complete a site located on Divide Mountain. The Fort Peck Tribes, in conjunction with Roosevelt County, were allocated $874,590 for upgrades and new equipment at two sites on the Fort Peck Reservation. All three projects are complete and operating. Interoperability Montana, with the assistance of the Department of Administration, worked with the tribes on the development and implementation of these projects and other Public Safety Radio communication issues.

The State of Montana 911 Program received a federal appropriation of approximately $330,000 to fund Enhanced 9-1-1 services for tribal emergency call centers. The Blackfeet, Northern Cheyenne, and Rocky Boy's tribal governments worked with the Department of Administration's Public Safety Services Bureau to coordinate the 9-1-1 network and equipment upgrades supporting E-9-1-1 capabilities. The new upgrades automatically associate a physical address with the calling party's telephone number and routes the call to the most appropriate call center. All three locations were deployed by December 2009.

Environmental

The State continues to work closely with the Tribes in the management of water, fish, wildlife and parks. The following section describes cooperative efforts over the past year.

The Peoples Way project is 56.3 miles of corridors on US Highway 93 from Evaro to Polson that traverses the Flathead Reservation. The Peoples Way is setting a new standard for migration of wildlife near highways by providing more than 40 safe wildlife crossings designed to accommodate natural routes of animal migration for migratory fish, turtles, deer, grizzly and black bears, and many other animals. To ensure the measures are working, a small number of motion-sensing animal detection cameras and animal tracking beds have been installed to monitor wildlife crossing structures and their use by wildlife. The safety and road capacity improvements are a collective vision of the Confederated Salish & Kootenai Tribes, Montana Department of Transportation and the Federal Highway Administration.

The Peoples Way Overpass

With the project complete, wildlife and natural resource managers are now moving into the next phase of assuring the highway is fitting into the landscape and Spirit of Place. The Peoples Way is currently being realigned to fit into the existing landscape. The road takes in the mountain vistas with the Mission Mountains as a backdrop, and the new road preserves the native plants and grasses.

Confederated Salish & Kootenai Tribes is experimenting with growth of native grasses, shrubs and trees in their state-of-the-art greenhouse to ensure native flora is replaced in areas disturbed by construction. The Peoples Way is among the most context-sensitive highways in the United States. It will not only reflect the Spirit of Place, but will allow the rebirth of native grasses, plants, and shrubs along the corridor; the protection of all wildlife living on the Flathead Reservation; and the safety of visitors and residents who pass through this land. The Peoples Way sets a new standard for road design, commitment to the environment, and intergovernmental collaboration.

The Department of Fish, Wildlife and Parks conducted the second of two swift fox translocations from northeastern Montana onto the Fort Peck Reservation in August of 2009. The department continues to work with the Fort Peck Tribal Wildlife department to monitor success of swift fox translocations. The reservation swift fox population is now estimated to be 70 animals.

Montana's Livestock Loss Reduction & Mitigation Board signed a livestock loss compensation agreement with the Confederated Salish & Kootenai Tribes in August 2009 that allows all livestock owners within reservation boundaries to be eligible for livestock loss compensation program activities. Currently, the program pays for U.S. Department of Agriculture verified livestock losses to wolf depredation based upon available funding. Prior to the agreement, livestock owners who suffered losses on tribal lands were not eligible for wolf depredation compensation payments. The Livestock Loss Reduction & Mitigation Board can now enter into agreements with any Montana Tribe as long as the Tribe has a wolf management plan in place. The board hopes other tribes use the Confederated Salish & Kootenai Tribes wolf management plan as a model for their own wolf management plans.

Montana Historical Society State Historic Preservation Office provided training funded by the Preserve America Grant in May 2009 at the Stone Child College to representatives of the Rocky Boy's Tribal Historic Preservation Office, Stone Child College, Blackfeet Tribal Historic Preservation Office and the Blackfeet Oil and Gas Office. Speakers from the State Historic Preservation Office, The University of Montana, and Integrity Archaeology Consulting presented various field techniques for identifying and recording archaeology sites such as Ground Penetrating Radar for remote sensing.

The Department of Fish, Wildlife and Parks, in cooperation with the Northern Cheyenne Tribe, hosted the 6th annual commemorative event at the Rosebud Battlefield State Park on June 17, 2010. The date commemorates the anniversary date of the fight the Northern Cheyenne call the "Battle Where the Girl Saved Her Brother." Those who fought at the Rosebud, eight days later defeated Lt. Col. George Armstrong Custer at the Little Big Horn. The event included the unveiling of a new National Historic Landmark plaque and interpretive signs developed in consultation with the Northern Cheyenne Cultural Committee, the Northern Cheyenne Tribal Historic Preservation Officer, Chief Dull Knife College staff and the Department of Fish, Wildlife and Parks. Speakers addressed the significance of the Rosebud battle and the pride the Cheyenne people have in the way their ancestors fought to preserve their way of life. The Rosebud Battlefield State Park obtained National Historic Landmark status in 2008.

In June 2010, the Confederated Salish & Kootenai Tribes signed a memorandum of understanding with the Department of Agriculture and the Lake County Board of Commissioners to collect, store, chip and ship for recycling the plastic from empty pesticide containers. Lake County Weed District will collect, triple-rinse and store used containers. Plastic gathered from the process is used to make items that do not come into contact with food or humans, for example bumper strips for parking lots.

Human Services

On February 3, 2010, the Department of Public Health and Human Services provided training to tribal and urban chemical dependency programs regarding billing for Medicaid services and improving access to Montana Chemical Dependency Center. The department is leading efforts to implement training and technical assistance provided to tribal and urban Native American chemical dependency programs. This includes technical assistance to new applicants for Chemical Dependency Treatment programs seeking state approval.

The Department of Public Health and Human Services Child Support Enforcement Division collaborated with the newly certified Chippewa Cree Tribal Child Support System on case transfers, collections and establishment of paternity, which constitutes a working relationship between fellow child support agencies. In addition, the Child Support Enforcement Division has entered into a Memorandum of Understanding with the Confederated Salish & Kootenai Tribes to establish a working relationship to assist in the development of their tribal child support program.

The Department of Public Health and Human Services Montana Medicaid Infrastructure Grant purpose is to enhance state Medicaid programs and services, promote links between Medicaid and other employment-related services agencies, and develop a comprehensive system of employment supports for people with disabilities. Currently, Fort Belknap, Blackfeet and Chippewa Cree Tribes have contracts for Social Security disability benefits planners with the Vocational Rehabilitation Projects.

Finance

State-tribal tax agreements promote economic development on reservations by avoiding dual taxation on certain economic transactions. Instead, one tax is collected and the revenues are distributed between the State and a Tribe. The state administers revenue sharing agreements for the distribution of taxes on tobacco products, alcohol products, and motor fuel sales. Through these agreements, the State remits revenues to tribal governments quarterly.

The Department of Revenue administers taxation on cigarettes, tobacco and tobacco products, beer, wine and alcohol. In fiscal year 2010, revenue sharing agreements covering the taxation of cigarettes, tobacco and tobacco products were in place with the Blackfeet, Crow, Fort Belknap, Fort Peck, and Rocky Boy's tribal governments. Tax agreements for the distribution of beer, wine and alcohol taxes were in place with the Blackfeet, Fort Belknap and Fort Peck tribal governments. The Department of Transportation administers motor fuel tax revenue sharing agreements with six tribal governments.

Tribal Employment Rights Ordinance (TERO) offices ensure that American Indians are employed on reservation projects and facilitate business and other economic opportunities. The Department of Transportation maintains TERO agreements with six tribal governments. These agreements require that the department work with TERO offices to set out hiring and other requirements for highway projects within reservation boundaries. They also require that the department pay a fee based on the department's projects on each reservation. These fees, in part, fund the TERO offices. The Federal Highway Administration will participate in contracts where TERO fees are used for the identified increased costs of hiring American Indian workers for federal-aid projects – job referrals, counseling, placement, and training.

The following table shows the amount of revenue the Tribes received through revenue sharing agreements and TERO fees in fiscal year 2010:

State-Tribe Revenue Sharing and TERO Agreements – Fiscal Year 2010
Reservation	Tobacco	Alcohol	Gasoline	TERO
Blackfeet	$1,257,288	$198,139	$929,605	$419,295
Crow	$1,108,813	N/A	$816,243	$128,179
Flathead	Quota – MCA, 16-11-155	N/A	N/A	$333,688
Fort Belknap	$426,541	$67,219	$336,371	$40,814
Fort Peck	$945,508	$150,404	$600,989	$5,627
Northern Cheyenne	Quota – 1992 Agreement	N/A	$407,890	$120,642
Rocky Boy's	$485,131	N/A	$358,693	N/A

Justice

The State-Tribal Cooperative Agreements Act, §§ 18-11-101, et seq., MCA, enables the state and tribal governments to enter into agreements with regard to mutually beneficial activities and services and the administration of state and tribal taxes. Pursuant to the Act, state agencies and political subdivisions have entered into hundreds of agreements with Tribal governments, spanning the spectrum from foster care to forestry. The Attorney General must review and approve of these agreements before they can become effective. The Department of Justice therefore works year-around with state agencies to ensure their state-tribal contracts meet the requirements of the Cooperative Agreements Act and are otherwise in conformity with the law.

Law enforcement on reservations involves multiple jurisdictions and enforcement agencies. The Department of Justice negotiates and executes law enforcement cooperative agreements under the State-Tribal Cooperative Agreements Act, §§ 18-11-101, et seq., MCA, and the Federal Indian Law Enforcement Reform Act, 25 U.S.C. §§ 2801, et seq. The Attorney General, in his capacity as chief law enforcement officer for the State, executes these agreements on behalf of the Montana Highway Patrol. There are three cooperative law enforcement agreements now in effect to which the State, through the Highway Patrol, is a party. These agreements are with the Fort Peck, Confederated Salish & Kootenai, and Blackfeet tribal governments. Additionally, the Attorney General's Office has approved a local impact mitigation agreement, to which the Highway Patrol is not a party, between the Northern Cheyenne Tribe and Big Horn County.

At the request of the Fort Peck Tribes and Roosevelt County law enforcement, a training was conducted at the Fort Peck Community College in Wolf Point, April 27-29, 2010. Topics included interview techniques, Driving Under the Influence (DUI) laws, prescription drug abuse, protocols for testifying in court, and liquor laws. Agencies involved included the Montana Department of Revenue, the Montana Highway Patrol, the Montana Law Enforcement Academy, and the Montana Department of Justice Prosecution Services Bureau and Division of Criminal Investigation.

STATE ACTIVITIES IMPACTING TRIBAL POPULATIONS

STATE ACTIVITIES IMPACTING TRIBAL POPULATIONS

American Indians living on reservations and urban areas represent a sizable portion of the State population in Montana. The wide array of state programs and services has a positive impact in Indian Country.

FEATURE SECTION: MONTANA INDIAN EQUITY FUND

As part of the Indian Country Economic Development grants program created under the Schweitzer Administration, the Montana Indian Equity Fund serves as a financial resource to American Indian small business owners who have an idea and interest in starting a new business or expanding an existing business. Initially developed in 2007 as a pilot project, the Montana Indian Equity Fund is administered by the Department of Commerce.

Traditional forms of equity are not often available to the Indian business owner. The Montana Indian Equity Fund was created as a means for business owners to leverage their dollars. These funds can be used for a variety of activities such as the purchase of new equipment or the development of a new product line. The fund requires a minimum dollar-to-dollar match.

Since its inception, the program has provided $364,000 to 55 businesses who work and live in Indian Country. Seventeen of the fifty-five recipients matched their equity with loans from either a community bank or development corporation. We are pleased to feature the following three program participants:

Clara Caufield, A Cheyenne Voice (Northern Cheyenne)

Seeing a need for a local media to improve communication on the Northern Cheyenne Reservation, Clara started a weekly newsletter titled "A Cheyenne Voice" in August 2010. The newsletter is distributed free of charge to tribal members to share information regarding community events, job opportunities and local announcements.

Governor Brian Schweitzer shakes hands with Clara Caufield owner and editor "A Cheyenne Voice"

Rae Ann Cline, Owner of Mane Event Salon in Browning cuts a client's hair

Rae Ann Cline, The Mane Event Beauty Salon (Blackfeet)

The Mane Event is a beauty salon and boutique located in Browning. Along with the Montana Indian Equity Fund, they also received a loan from First Interstate Bank in Great Falls to expand the business space to add an on-site boutique. The boutique opened in 2009 and the business continues to grow. Rae Ann employs three staff with plans to hire two additional stylists in the future.

"This fund is an outlet to help Indian business owners achieve their goals and enhance their communities. Each success story will add to the momentum of economic change in Indian Country."

Governor Brian Schweitzer

Jade Huckins, Summer Shaved Ice (Little Shell)

Jade, age 21, is a young entrepreneur who has a summer business selling shaved ice at events throughout the Helena area. The Summer Shaved Ice business acquired a new trailer and equipment providing greater options. Jade is planning to hire one or two employees in the summer of 2011. She is also considering opening a year round coffee shop/shaved ice business in downtown Helena.

Small businesses are the engine of Montana's economy. Development of our local economies is done one business and one job at a time. Montanans are creative and our entrepreneurs need a variety of tools to help put their own ideas and plans into action.

INNOVATIVE PROGRAMS AND COOPERATIVE EFFORTS OF 2010

Economic Development

The Rural Development Bureau of the Montana Department of Agriculture continues to provide Junior Agriculture Loans and Rural Assistance Loan to tribal members and groups. For example, both loan programs issued a total of $406,000 in loans in fiscal year 2010 on the Fort Belknap and Blackfoot Reservations. In 2010, eight of the 17 Junior Agriculture Loans issued by the department went to tribal members. Individuals who receive Junior Agriculture Loans frequently go on to become successful farmers and/or ranchers. One successful tribal member of the Gros Ventre Tribe of the Fort Belknap Reservation, Toby Werk, began his ranching career with his family by obtaining a Junior Agricultural Loan at the age of nine. Toby graduated from Hays Lodgepole High School and went on to Fort Belknap College and Northern Montana College. He has since purchased the family ranch near Hays. He and his family also started a ranch recreation business for hunters and outdoor enthusiasts.

Native American Made in Montana logo

The Department of Commerce created a new Native American Made in Montana Logo to certify that a product was made by an enrolled tribal member of a Montana Tribe residing in Montana. Producers can register at no cost and are provided with the electronic logo free of charge along with a complimentary start up roll of 250 logo labels, which were first distributed in September 2009. All Made in Montana logos are federally registered marks and are regulated by the Montana Department of Commerce. Certified Native American Made in Montana producers and artists are listed in the department's Native American Made in Montana Online Products Directory at <http://madeinmontanausa.com/>. Currently, eleven producers are registered with the Native American Made in Montana Program.

The Indianpreneurship, A Native Journey into Business Training Program provides technical assistance and business planning courses to American Indian entrepreneurs starting a business and business owners who are growing and professionalizing their business. In particular, the entrepreneur program focuses on developing the capacity of Indian organizations on the reservations through mentoring, classroom training, workshops, counseling and lending. For example, the Little Big Horn College Extension Program on the Crow Reservation received $3,000 to provide Indianpreneurship training from January through March 2010 at the Little Big Horn College.

Tribal Tourism

The prevalence of tourism in Montana represents tremendous economic development opportunities for Indian Country. Each Indian reservation has a distinct character and encompasses diverse touristic attractions such as the National Bison Range on the Flathead Reservation, the Museum of the Plains Indian in Browning, the Little Bighorn Battlefield National Monument on the Crow Reservation, and of course the numerous Pow Wow celebrations held throughout the summer.

The Department of Commerce's Tourism Development and Education Programs work on tourism promotion in collaboration with tribal tourism representatives for strategic planning meetings and the Montana Governor's Conference on Tourism and Recreation. The program provided funding to the Montana Tribal Tourism Alliance for the development of the Seven Lodges Handbook, which highlights the history, unique culture and hospitality found on Indian reservations. In the last year, the program updated and reprinted the handbook. Indian-owned visitor travel services, attractions, tour guides and a crime prevention and public safety assessment in tribal communities and prepare focus groups on the issue of teen pregnancy. For example, three VISTAs served on the Northern Cheyenne Reservation with the Boys and Girls Club where they conducted community needs assessments and strategic planning for a Teen Center, Skate Park, and local recycling center.

The Montana Governor's Conference on Tourism and Recreation was held April 8-9, 2010 in Kalispell. The conference featured a tribal tourism tract, focusing on tribal tourism opportunities in Indian Country. The conference included American Indian speakers and a demonstration of traditional native games.

Serving Communities

The Prevention Resource Center VISTA Project works throughout Montana communities, including all seven reservations. The AmeriCorps* Volunteers in Service to America (VISTA) work to combat the challenges Montana's children, families, and communities face by addressing risk factors such as unintended and unhealthy pregnancies, child abuse and neglect, substance abuse, crime and violence, and high school drop-outs. VISTAs serve one-year working with the community on building capacity and sustainable solutions to economic challenges. Four VISTAs served with statewide efforts to establish summer food sites, engage children and youth in safe play and healthy nutrition, conduct

"From organizing our Christmas gift giveaway to coordinating our Summer Food Service Program, the main focus of my project has been to enrich the lives of the youth of the Northern Cheyenne Reservation." Jillian Winters, VISTA serving on the Northern Cheyenne Reservation

In September 2009, the Department of Corrections was awarded a $925,000 federal grant from the U.S. Justice Department for hiring probation and parole officers specialized in managing Indian offenders and to reduce the high rate at which they return to prison. The grant will maintain the program for two years. The goal is to reduce offender recidivism and return rates by 15 % within the first 12 months following an offenders' release from a correctional facility. The five new officers are stationed near Montana's seven Indian reservations, Cut Bank/Shelby, Glasgow, Hardin, Havre and Polson.

Education

Jobs for Montana's Graduates is ranked number one in the nation by the Jobs for America's Graduates program and has proven to be exceptionally successful with Native American students. Administered by the Department of Labor and Industry, the program is in many reservation high schools and middle schools. The senior graduation rate for students participating in a school program on a reservation was 87.3%, according to the 2010 JMG Statewide Report. Students graduate prepared for life after high school by raising their expectations of themselves, investigating and selecting realistic career goals, learning and teaching leadership and teamwork skills, and acquiring workplace values and employability skills.

"The success rate of the JMG program is phenomenal," Governor Brian Schweitzer. "I would like to thank all the dedicated teachers and students that have made this program so successful."

The Office of Public Instruction assisted in the development of a successful Early Reading First proposal from the Department of Education to support early childhood education. The Montana Partnership for Early Literacy was organized to transform five existing preschool centers serving at-risk young children in Montana into centers of excellence. Approximately 40% of the preschool children served are American Indian, with Fort Belknap serving the largest amount of American Indian children and Hardin and Great Falls serving a high number as well. The Montana Partnership for Early Literacy received the largest grant awarded under the Early Reading First program funded at $6,090,241 for the period October 2009 to September 2012.

The Office of Public Instruction collaborated with the Montana Historical Society to support a local museum/school district round of grants to promote Indian Education for All in six communities. The local partnerships will collaborate on educational projects that access museum collections and incorporate the Essential Understandings Regarding Montana Indians. The projects involve a high level of participation on the part of students and tribal members, along with the support of an Indian Education for All coach. The successful applicants are Big Horn County Museum in Hardin, Glacier County Historical Museum in Cut Bank, Lewis and Clark Interpretive Center in Great Falls, Museum of the Beartooths in Columbus, Old Trail Museum in Choteau, and Yellowstone Gateway Museum in Livingston.

The De La Salle Blackfeet School students, teachers and tribal elders pose with Lt. Governor John Bohlinger

On May 3, 2010, the De La Salle Blackfeet School eighth grade class presented Lt. Governor John Bohlinger with a Winter Count pictograph they created in Native Studies class. Winter counts are pictorial calendars or histories in which tribal records and events are recorded. Accompanied by their Native Studies teachers, Smokey and Darnell Rides at the Door, as well as two Blackfeet elders, Cynthia Kipp and Gertie Heavy Runner, the students learned how to be cultural ambassadors. Each student spoke with the Lt. Governor about their artistic contribution to the pictograph and signed the back. This gift is on display in the Lt. Governor's office at the State Capitol.

INDIAN TEACHER OF THE YEAR

The Montana Indian Education Association named Calvin Weatherwax, a member of the Blackfeet Nation, Indian Teacher of the Year at their annual conference held in April 2010. Calvin is a certified Elementary Teacher in Browning teaching 2nd and 3rd grades. Calvin is a positive influence for the students of Browning Schools as he incorporates his traditional Indian knowledge into classroom instructions. He participates in the traditions of the Blackfeet and is a valuable resource in the schools for both students and teachers regarding traditional values, science concepts of traditional plants, the universe, and natural resources. Calvin has proven to be an outstanding role model for Indian children, parents and Indian Education for All.

Lt. Governor John Bohlinger addresses dignitaries and students at the 2010 Flathead Lake Honoring event

The 9th Annual Flathead Lake Honoring Day, held September 2009, highlighted state and tribal cooperation on Flathead Lake. Nearly 200 high school students attended demonstrations by the Confederated Salish & Kootenai Tribes and the Department of Fish, Wildlife and Parks on Flathead Lake aquatic resources. The Tribe and the State continue to work together closely on all aspects of information and education relative to Flathead Lake fisheries management.

Indian Education for All awarded progressive grants to K-12 public schools. The grant period covers 18 months and awards totaled $321,900. The goal of this grant program is to promote sustainable Indian Education for All implementation efforts in Montana school districts. Grant activities for each district are tailored to the level of readiness as identified in a pre-survey. Grant recipients receive differentiated support to progress toward the development of a comprehensive Indian Education for All plan, sustained by regular funding and staff. The grantees include Victor, Shelby/Golden Triangle Cooperative, Great Falls, Browning, Bozeman, Ronan, Wolf Point, Belt, Polson, Harlem, Arlee, Billings, Poplar, Helena, Missoula, Flathead/Northwest Montana Educational Cooperative, and Big Timber.

On May 13, 2010, The University of Montana celebrated the completion and opening of The Payne Family Native American Center—the first of its kind at any American university. The public was invited to join tribal leaders and community, state, and campus representatives for the event, which included many Native American traditions to honor and dedicate the new center.

A record 105 Native American students received bachelor and master's degrees during the 114th commencement ceremonies at the Montana State University-Bozeman in May 2010. The number of Native American graduates increased nearly 60% from last year, when 21 Native Americans graduated from MSU-Bozeman and has nearly tripled in the last decade. Many of the graduates this spring were enrolled in the MSU-Bozeman Indian Leadership Education and Development and Early Childhood Education Distance Partnership programs. Both programs provide access to degrees for Native American students throughout Montana who have historically been underserved.

Montana State University-Northern collaborated with the Fort Belknap Tribes on a water project monitoring water quality parameters and riparian vegetation along the Milk River from Fresno to the eastern border of the Fort Belknap Reservation. The $73,500 grant was awarded by The University of Montana and the Montana National Science Foundation Experimental Program to Stimulate Competitive Research.

Montana State University-Billings College of Technology has a new Mobile Energy Training Laboratory collaborating with other Montana University System colleges and tribal colleges including Little Big Horn College (Crow), Chief Dull Knife College (Northern Cheyenne), Stone Child College (Chippewa Cree) and Fort Peck Community College (Fort Peck) on training efforts through the federal Department of Labor Community-Based Job Training and Workforce Innovation in Regional Economic Development grants. The mobile laboratory is 38 feet long, rides on a diesel truck chassis and can accommodate up to 10 students at a time. It will soon be seen around the region training students and workers in the latest energy-related technologies. It is one of a few of its kind in the western United States.

The Office of the Commissioner of Higher Education announced that Kassandra Murphy-Brazill has been hired as the new Director for the American Indian and Minority Achievement program. Ms. Murphy-Brazill began her position in February 2010 with a strong educational and experiential background and an enthusiastic commitment to increasing American Indian and minority achievement and participation in Montana's public higher education.

Secretary of State Linda McCulloch Elections Division worked with the Salish Kootenai College to help secure a federal elections grant to recruit college poll workers during the 2010 elections cycle. In December 2009, the college received a two-year, $66,008 federal grant from the U.S. Election Assistance Commission to fund its Student Teams for Election Assistance in Montana program. The proposal includes a working relationship with the Flathead Valley Community College, the Secretary of State's Office and the Lake and Flathead County election offices. The program has a target of recruiting and training 200 students to serve as poll workers to assist the 1.6 percent of the voters who speak the Salish and Kootenai languages and who may be deaf.

Smithsonian's "Native Words, Native Warriors" exhibit invitation

Montana Tribal Veterans

The Governor's Office of Indian Affairs and the Montana Historical Society hosted an unveiling of the "Native Words, Native Warriors" exhibit on April 28, 2010 in Helena. The exhibit, curated by Montanan George Horse Capture Sr., was brought to Montana from the Smithsonian Institution. The Smithsonian created the exhibit to tell the remarkable story of Indian Marines and soldiers from the Assiniboine, Sioux, Chippewa, Cree, Navajo, Hopi, Kiowa, Comanche, Choctaw, Cherokee, Meskwaki, Creek, Sac and Fox, Oneida, Menominee and Seminole Tribes who used their coded native languages as a weapon against U.S. enemies. The Historical Society has added to the exhibit to include the Montana story and honor Montana marine and soldier veterans. The exhibit highlights the veterans' experience and perspective through filmed interviews, written testimonies and historic photographs on display. The exhibit will tour the seven reservations in Montana throughout the summer and fall of 2010 with the support of Wal-Mart, private individuals, and groups.

in Polson assisted in the development of a Veterans Talking Circle support group held at the Salish Kootenai College campus in Pablo. Support group meetings are open to all affected with a trauma issue or Post Traumatic Stress Disorder. The regional program officers assist the community with outreach efforts and referrals to the Veterans Talking Circle support group.

In addition, a licensed addiction counselor of the Western Montana Mental Health Center in Polson works closely with the "Circle of Trust" Tribal Suicide Prevention Group to support the expansion of mental health and counseling services and culturally relevant services offered.

Cultural

The Burial Preservation Board developed and published a brochure to educate coroners and land owners about the law and procedures to be used when skeletal remains are discovered. The purpose of the Board is to protect from disturbance skeletal remains found throughout the state and to seek the repatriation of remains and funerary objects improperly taken from unprotected burial sites. The Department of Administration and the Board work closely with the Governor's Office of Indian Affairs. Burial Preservation Board members represent the following tribes and agencies: Blackfeet, Chippewa Cree, Crow, Fort Belknap, Fort Peck, Little Shell, Northern Cheyenne, Confederated Salish & Kootenai, Coroner's Association, and the Archeological Society.

Health and Human Services

The Department of Public Health and Human Services Healthy Montana Kids Program was awarded $971,868 for an Outreach and Enrollment Grant in October 2009. Awarded by the Centers for

First Lady Nancy Schweitzer and Department of Transportation Director Jim Lynch unveil the Sweet Grass Hills geo sign

Montana's colorful history includes the stories told through geology. Each interpretive sign describes geologic wonders of the Treasure State to help share Montana's story. On September 25, 2009, the First Lady and the Transportation Director Jim Lynch unveiled the Sweet Grass Hills roadside geology marker located on Highway 2, east of Chester. Katoyisiks is the Blackfeet word for the Sweet Grass Hills and means "Sweet Pine Hills." Some of Blackfeet's oldest stories and traditions involve the hills. Since 2006, nearly 50 roadside geological markers have been installed. The program also serves to spark an interest in geology, supporting the Governor and First Lady's Math and Science Initiative, which encourages students in Montana to discover the wonders of the state of Montana.

Medicare and Medicaid Services through the Children's Health Insurance Plan Reauthorization Act, the grant emphasizes enrollment of Native American and rural populations. The department led the grant application effort for the coalition of seventeen organizations, of which the Blackfeet, Chippewa Cree, Confederated Salish and Kootenai, Crow, Fort Belknap, Fort Peck and Northern Cheyenne Tribes are participating members. The Healthy Montana Kids Program Outreach team worked with schools and employers on the reservations and coordinated three press conferences held on the Crow, Northern Cheyenne and Flathead Reservations. Thirteen partner trainings were held between October 2009 and May 2010, with each reservation participating. Each Indian reservation in the state now has a trained Enrollment Partner living in Indian Country. An Enrollment Partner listing is available at www.hmk.mt.gov.

In spring of 2009, a novel influenza H1N1 virus was identified and quickly spread throughout the United States. In September of 2009, the Communicable Disease Control and Prevention Bureau worked collaboratively with tribal and urban health entities to vaccinate those at risk and distribute medical and financial resources to each tribal jurisdiction. The Department of Public Health and Human Services' Immunization and Communicable Disease programs organized an incident management team to communicate with tribal health officials, assist with risk communication efforts, ensure antiviral medications were available, and helped ensure their tribal pandemic flu plans were activated. Tribal governments were very successful in collaborating with surrounding local counties to identify those who were ill and to organize and promote vaccination clinics. Tribal health agencies and the Indian Health Service responded to the H1N1 challenge admirably and achieved the highest vaccination rates in the state. The immunization Section recognized the Crow, Rocky Boy's, and Fort Belknap Reservations for having the highest percentage vaccination rates in the state and presented a certificate of accomplishment to each.

Montana was the first state to implement the Protections for Indians Under Medicaid in Section 5006 of the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act of 2009. Under this provision, Medicaid eligibility does not count property, including Individual Indian Money (IIM) accounts, ownership interests and usage rights in federally protected natural resources, real property and improvements, held in trust or under supervision of the U.S. Department of the Interior, as resources when determining eligibility for Medicaid or the Children's Health Insurance Plan.

The Voices For Change Award, established by the American Diabetes Association Awakening the Spirit Subcommittee, celebrates the successes of the Special Diabetes Program for Indians grantees. These awards honor and recognize those who have provided outstanding diabetes prevention and treatment services in American Indian and Alaska Native communities. In 2010, the name of the award was changed to honor the association's long time Awakening the Spirit diabetes advocate, John Douglas Pipe, Assiniboine Sioux from Wolf Point, Montana who passed away January 23, 2010. Appointed by Governor Schweitzer, John served on the Statewide Independent Living Council and the Interagency Disabilities Advisory Council for the state of Montana. His dedication as a diabetes advocate and service as a member of the Awakening the Spirit Subcommittee was exemplary. His longstanding advocacy efforts reached from his home community to Washington DC and countless tribal communities.

John Douglas Pipe

The Department of Public Health and Human Services Addictive and Mental Disorders Division awarded a Recovery from Mental Illness grant to the Fort Belknap Reservation to create the new TI NEI IIN KIIN Drop-In Center. Recovery activities include art therapy, support meetings utilizing the Alcoholic Anonymous philosophy and holistic support services. The Center also provides community resources in diabetes prevention, domestic violence, vocational rehabilitation, and behavioral health through the Indian Health Service.

Safety

Montana, through the Department of Justice, is the first state in the nation to offer the “Hope Card” to victims of domestic violence. The Attorney General is now working in cooperation with the Crow and the Confederated Salish & Kootenai tribal courts so that these Tribes can directly issue Hope Cards for cases within their jurisdiction. The Attorney General will continue to work with interested Tribes so that all tribal courts can eventually issue their own Hope Cards. The Hope Card was developed by John Oliveira, a special agent with the Bureau of Indian Affairs, while serving on the Crow reservation in a program known as the Purple Feather Campaign. The wallet-sized card is carried by domestic violence victims, and includes critical information from court-issued permanent orders of protection. The Card can be shown to law enforcement officers by domestic violence victims, in lieu of a court order, during incidents involving the abuser. Carrying the Card eliminates the need to produce paper court orders in situations where immediate law enforcement action is needed. The Hope Card makes all Montanans safer, and is the result of common sense state-tribal cooperative efforts.

Annie (Katy) Sorrell, Montana Department of Transportation “Respect the Cage” crew member, discusses the importance of seat belt safety

The Montana Child Sexual Abuse Response Team, a program under the Department of Justice, provides resources for communities across the state to increase collaboration and teamwork when dealing with child victims of abuse. The program has worked with tribal members from Crow, Northern Cheyenne, Blackfeet, Fort Belknap, and Fort Peck. The program funds have assisted tribal team members in attending trainings both in and out of state for medical professionals, prosecutors, therapists, social workers, and others. It has also provided i-record interview equipment to the Fort Peck community. The Department of Justice will continue to collaborate with and provide assistance to tribal communities in this area.

The Department of Transportation “Respect the Cage” campaign travels statewide, including Indian reservations, to provide education and awareness of seat belt protection. On June 26, 2010, the cage demonstrated the importance of seatbelt safety to tribal members at Crow Native Days. The crashed vehicle, along with the “Room to Live” video, the Rollover Simulator and other “Respect the Cage” elements show the importance of seat belts and the impact one life can have on so many people. The Montana Department of Transportation hopes that the traveling exhibit that is intended to save lives and preserve Montana families will encourage everyone to buckle up.

Lady Parading Crow Style

MEET THE FEATURED ARTIST

ALLEN KNOWS HIS GUN, CROW ARTIST

Allen Knows His Gun

ALLEN KNOWS HIS GUN is a Crow Indian fine artist who works with oil and acrylic paints to express his vision of American Indian culture. He grew up on the Crow Indian Reservation in Montana. His Crow Indian name is “Baawachesh Xuuchesh,” which translates to “Helps the Needy.”

The second eldest of four brothers and a sister, he began his early curriculum at the Crow Agency Elementary School, where he found great interest in the projects conducted in art classes. His older brother Lyndon would bring home art projects, where together they would study works ranging from paintings to sculptures. Allen would sometimes watch his father, also an artist, work on impressionistic paintings and he had the opportunity to accompany him to art shows. “Introduced to the art world at a very young age, it seems inevitable that I would be a part of it in some way.”

Allen attended junior high at Pretty Eagle Catholic School and then attended Hardin Senior High School where he graduated in May of 1997. He was very active in sports while in Hardin and he competed in basketball, football, and cross-country. During that time period, his brother Joe introduced him to the high school art instructor Hector Alvarado. Soon after, he would study independently under Alvarado for about a year. “Before I met Hector I was more of a free lancing artist. My study under Hector gave me a more scientific, disciplined and philosophical approach to the arts. Meeting Hector was a pivotal moment for me in my pursuit of excellence in the fine arts.”

After high school, Allen attended Haskell Indian Nations University. He began displaying his art in shows, between classes and sports. He competed in basketball as part of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics and completed four years of collegiate athletics. In 2003, Allen graduated with a B.A. in American Indian Studies. Afterward he attended the University of Kansas and earned his M.A. in Indigenous Nation Studies in 2005.

After graduate school, Allen returned home to teach American Indian Studies for a year at Rocky Mountain College in Billings, Montana. Following his teaching experience, Allen continued his career as a prolific artist. His paintings depict American Indian people and traditional life from historical time to the present. Much of his work reflects his Crow heritage along with other Plains Indian cultures. Careful research is evident in his work, with the authentic portrayal of regalia and scenery. His work reflects a genre of romantic realism/impressionism, while brilliant colors with bold light and shadow have become signatures in his elegant style. “American Indians were self-sufficient people who were able to sustain themselves quite successfully for thousands upon thousands of years. They had proven adept in the arts and sciences, especially in the realms of agriculture, botany and astronomy. Today, American Indians are faced with many issues. What is of vital importance today is the reconstructive processes which must take place in the Indian Arts and Sciences. I feel very fortunate to be able to use fine art as a tool in this reconstructive process.”
